It is hard to realize that they are the same monarchs that were embracing each other at recent royal weddings and funerals.

In most cases the old man who contrasts Lincoln with living Republicans, to their discredit, lambasted Lincoln while he was alive.

While Gen. Sherman doubtless expected to be longest remembered for his march through Georgia to the sea, his greater fame will rest on a bit of amateur lexicography.

The supreme court of the United States has declared that the International Harvester company is a monopoly, that it is working along lines which restrain interstate commerce, and that the concern must dissolve within ninety days. The decree you say! Surely not the same harvester trust which the name of one George W. Perkins was so intimately linked but a few short years ago?

This land of the free and home of the brave is abundantly supplied with human ghouls and vultures, as is amply attested by the alacrity shown by the patriotic plotters in promptly jumping prices for foodstuffs, when there is no just cause for advancing the prices of products of which we have a superabundance, and foreign outlets closed. He is a mean thief who will ply his calling at a funeral.—Oil City Blizzard.

BETWEEN the avalanche of letters from the "folks at home" protesting against the Wilson policies and the reported threats of President Wilson and members of his cabinet to punish members of Congress who refuse to help out through Wilson policies, many Democratic Congressmen are driven almost to desperation. Not for years has the power of the President and his cabinet been used with such pressure on Congressmen as it is now being used by Woodrow Wilson and his two able political assistants, Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary McAdoo. Many appointments are in the hands of these gentlemen, and while nothing is written Congressmen have been given to understand distinctly that if those appointments are to "come through," Congressmen must jump at the crack of the whip. Congressmen have been driven into line by the Wilson whip in support of measures which they knew their constituents didn't want. Now they are hearing from these constituents. The breaking point has come.

FIFTY CENTS a pound for beefsteak is the prediction and the outlook, with a corresponding increase in other meat prices. This is the "reduced cost of living" which free trade was going to bring. What free trade is actually doing is to greatly reduce the domestic meat supply and thereby increase the price. Free trade in wool has already resulted in the sending to the butcher's block of several million sheep and lambs which would otherwise have been held for their fleeces. Invariably our domestic sheep flocks have diminished under free trade. With a greatly reduced mutton supply the meat trust finds it easy enough to mark up meat prices all along the line. It is after this fashion that free trade reduces the cost of living! Of course the Democratic party of free trade will try to shift the blame on the European war, but as prices on all commodities had begun to soar toward the skies long before a war was thought of, that pretext won't save them from the condemnation of the consumers, who are taxed to death to keep alive.

Crowding The "Farmer."

Vance Cameron McCormick, the factional Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, aristocratic, highly perfumed and of the silk stocking brand, seems determined to crowd "Farmer" W. T. Cressy off the Democratic ticket.

Candidate McCormick wants a fusion with the bull moosers of Pennsylvania, and he wants to have "Farmer" Cressy, the factional Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, retired and have Dean Lewis, the bull moose candidate for governor, substituted for Mr. Cressy.

Candidate McCormick prefers Lewis as his running mate largely because Lewis is a college man, and so the negotiations for a fusion are being engineered at candidate McCormick's behest.

Lewis, like McCormick, is far removed from the people, and like McCormick he represents aristocracy and McCormick firmly believes in advancing only the rich and aristocratic.

Democratic Policy Saves Democratic Panic.

Washington, Aug. 18.—In the face of the greatest financial panic the country has ever known, the Democratic party in Congress had to turn back to the Republican currency law to avert financial disaster. Never, perhaps, did a great party in complete control of all the branches of government ever eat such humble pie as did the Democrats when they asked the Congress to use the terms of the Vreeland-Aldrich Currency bill to save the country from a panic.

For five years the Vreeland-Aldrich currency bill has been the favorite source of criticism by the Democrats. They attacked it from every side. Yet when they came to pass their own Glass-Owen currency bill for the purpose of preventing panic, they embodied therein the essential features of the very measure which they had attacked.

Scores of times on the floor of both the House and Senate Democrats declared the Glass-Owen bill would render a panic impossible. Democratic stump speakers took up this assertion and declared a measure had finally been found to put an end to panics. The Democratic press followed with fulsome praise of the proposed panic panacea.

Then the Democrats passed the Glass-Owen bill. That had been a law for eight months, but organization under it had not been effected. Then the great European war came on. European stocks and bonds were dumped on America. The country was seized with financial fear. Something had to be done. It was reported that the Democratic Glass-Owen bill which had been so widely heralded could not be put into working effect for thirty days more. Yet in that thirty days business might be paralyzed. The situation was critical. Their eight months' old currency bill could not do the business. The President and his Secretary of the Treasury knew it. They were grasping for a relief measure. The fact was forced upon them, that the old Republican Vreeland-Aldrich measure was their only salvation. So, with bitter reluctance, they asked Congress to use its provisions to save the country. Congress did and the panic was averted.

CONGRESSMAN George Kindel, of the first district of Colorado, has formally left the Democratic party and will oppose the Wilson administration. Mr. Kindel is one Congressman from the Northwest who has recognized the absolute disregard for the present administration and Democratic majority in Congress has shown for the interests and the industries of the section which he, in part, represents. Mr. Kindel has had the courage to declare his independence. He will seek reelection, probably as an Independent, for two reasons: first the neglect by the Democratic party for all that there is in the Northwest, and second, his evident belief that few Democrats will be elected from the Northwest in the coming campaign. Of President Wilson he says, "The President may know all about the syntax of Greek verbs, but he does not know anything about the practical questions that are confronting the American people."

THE three tanneries at Sheffield, namely, the Sheffield, the Tionesta, and the Horton, until further orders will run only on half time. The cause is given of the scarcity of hides and the embargo placed upon foreign shipments. It is planned that every man in the employ of the companies shall at least work half of the time and so one be entirely out of work. The leather business in this section has been pretty well shot to pieces since the new tariff law became operative, and the big war put the finish on the industry.—Elk Democrat.

Kelleitville.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barrett and children drove to Tylersburg Saturday to attend a reunion of the latter's family, and remained over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watson not being able to get away Saturday, drove down Sunday morning and spent the day with the latter's grandparents and the family gathered there.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Henderson and son Rex and Rev. and Mrs. Henry Smallenberger and two daughters, Dauphine and Esther, are in camp at West Hickory this week. Rev. Smallenberger returned Sunday to attend his out-of-town services, but Rev. Warren Jones filled his appointment here Sunday evening.

The Misses Margaret Lorom and Pearl Deier left for their respective places of work Friday, the former to Pittsburg and the latter to Meadville.

On Thursday evening the Keystone and Gleaner classes had their hayload party and drove to Ross Run, where they had a fine lunch served by the latter class. There was a good representation of both classes and all report a good time. Miss Olive Wolfe has purchased the Robbins building and will fit up the lower floor for a millinery store, work rooms and living rooms, and the upper floor will be rented as family living quarters. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins leave this week for Albany, N. Y., where they expect to make their future home. Olive left Monday for Buffalo, and will not be able to get any work done on her new property until she returns.

The base ball fans were disappointed Thursday when Sigel failed to put in an appearance at the game appointed for that day. The boys from here went to Endeavor Saturday and were defeated in a game there—score 11-4. The Kelleitville Outlaws went to Muzette Saturday and treated the boys there to a fair drubbing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Simpson drove to Fisher Friday, then on to Marienville Saturday, where they traded their two-passenger Metz for a five-passenger Ford car. Their niece, Jennie Dale, came over with them, and on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Proudt they drove to Marienville to try the new car and take Miss Dale home.

Alva and Amos Reed of Clarion visited their grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Dotterer, and other relatives in town during the week. They were accompanied home by Howard Blum, who will spend this week with them.

It is reported that the Pennsylvania Oil and Gas Co. drilled in a good gasser below town Saturday.

W. A. Kinch was laid off the latter part of the week with a sore eye. He had the misfortune to run a piece of wire into it while driving a cow out of the lot and it has been giving him considerable trouble. Some time ago he had his other eye hurt while working on the mill, and it has never been as good, which makes it harder to treat the one he was in the habit of depending upon.

Kathline Daubenspeck is visiting at Crown this week.

Chas. Daubenspeck drove to Tidoute Saturday evening and spent Sunday with his class, which is camping there. He reports everything going well and all having a good time.

A year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Host is very sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dunkle were week-end visitors with the former's brother in Kane.

G. F. Watson and Harry H. Watson of Tionesta called on Mrs. M. Andrews Wednesday.

A farewell reception was given in Andrews Hall Wednesday evening for Carol Brien, who left town Friday to join his parents at Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. M. Andrews and granddaughter, Miss Emma Andrews, gave a house party the latter part of the week. The out-of-town guests were Miss Hilda Bush of Erie, Mr. Homer Thompson of Grand Valley, Pa., and Mr. Kenneth Brown of Cleveland, O. Mrs. Andrews and her granddaughter attended the Cook family reunion at Nebraska the first of last week.

Porkey

Joseph Kinch, on Hill Hill, was visited by the stork on Saturday last and a fine daughter was given him. Everything comes to those that wait. This is the only girl in the family.

Mrs. Geo. Fink is sick at Sheriff, but not seriously so, and we hope she has a speedy recovery, as she has a large family to work for and only one girl to help her out.

A large number of our young fellows were swimming in the Tionesta creek below town Sunday and we are surprised to see this, as much sickness, suffering and death has been caused by bathing in this poison stream. Everyone should steer away from this water as it is not fit to wet your feet in now, and great harm is likely to follow if you go into it.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Littlefield of Henrys Mills, spent Sunday with the J. W. Littlefield family here.

The J. T. Miller family sold ice cream here on Saturday evening and disposed of five gallons about as fast as they could dish it up. Many of our residents took advantage of the opening and bought cream from them.

Maurice Burdick of Henrys Mills, came over from Russell City to spend Sunday with the J. T. Miller family before going to work at Henrys Mills where he has a position.

Saturday morning we were awakened by two young fellows that were at the Russell City dance and were returning the rig to Kelleitville. They seemed to be making noise to keep awake, and anyone who has been there knows one gets very sleepy the next day after a dance.

On the morning train the same day they had to do the same to amuse the passengers. Might as well hit the stage comedians, don't you know.

J. C. Black entertained company from Kelleitville Sunday, among which were two very nice babies, but we do not wish the mothers to get too proud of them on account of company.

Grey Jordan of Clarion was the guest of the J. W. Littlefield family here Sunday, after an absence of many days. Glad to see you Bob, come again.

Geo. Blum and wife went to Tionesta last Saturday to visit the Carl family, and left the small children with the older ones while absent.

Marian Rupert started on a trip to Clarion county last Saturday and will go to Foxburg first, where he will visit his cousin, Frank Tipper, and later to visit his grandparents at Knox.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Littlefield went to the berry woods Saturday and returned with the biggest haul yet brought in by two people. They went to a different place from where all the people go for this fruit, and were well rewarded for the trouble.

Sheffield, Pa., is among the first to feel the effects of the war. The three large tanneries there owned by the Elk Tanning company started operating on half time owing to the scarcity of hides caused by the placing of an embargo upon foreign shipments. Word also was received of an advance of 2 cents a pound on sole leather.

Not So Strange After All.

You may think it strange that so many people are cured of stomach trouble by Chamberlain's Tablets. You would not, however, if you should give them a trial. They strengthen and invigorate the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Mrs. Rosie Rish, Wabash, Ind., writes, "Nothing did me the least good until I began using Chamberlain's Tablets. It is decidedly the best medicine for stomach trouble I have ever used." For sale by all dealers. adv

They Prefer Peace and Quiet.
Since orders were issued for mobilization of the reserves of the foreign countries the applications for naturalization papers have increased more than 30 per cent in New York.

The Twenty Year Test.

"Some twenty years ago I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Geo. W. Brock, publisher of the Enterprise, Alton, Md. "I discovered that it was a quick and safe cure for diarrhoea. Since then no one can sell me anything said to be 'just as good.' During all these years I have used it and recommended it many times, and it has never disappointed anyone." For sale by all dealers. adv

Antony & Cleopatra

8 Reels—8

One of the most thrilling, awe inspiring moments of George Kleine's glorious production of the Cines Photo Drama "Antony and Cleopatra" is when the Egyptian Queen orders her slave thrown to the crocodiles of the Nile for daring to have fallen in love with Marc Antony. The picture is realistic in the extreme. The huge monsters are seen swimming about the stream, which flows at the foot of the palace steps, laying in wait for any article of food that may be thrown to them. The curtains of the entrance part and Cleopatra and her retinue appear, followed by a powerful slave who carries the young girl securely bound. At the Queen's signal the slave throws the girl into the waters. The crocodiles make one dive for her and all disappear into the depths of the river. Meanwhile Cleopatra looks on unmoved by pity, regal even in her hatred and malevolence, flashing proud fury from her eyes and a sneer of conscious disdain and power enveloping her features. It is an episode both dramatic and sensational that holds the spectator spellbound, yet carries with it no feeling of repulsion that might naturally be expected. It is superbly acted and superbly carried out. This is only one of a host of scenes that go to make the Cines "Antony and Cleopatra" the greatest photo drama yet produced. Showing at 2 to 5 and 7 to 11 p. m. Admission, 15c and 25c.
